

Happy Monday, Villagers

A Note About Daily Tips. As California opens up, we feel we have fulfilled our mission of providing some daily inspirations, news on virtual events, and submissions from members of the community to add some entertainment to your days during the pandemic. Beginning next week, we will be suspending Daily Tips and, instead, publishing a weekly wrapup each Friday at 9 am.

~ Personal hygiene left much room for improvement. As a result, many women and men had developed acne scars by adulthood. The women would spread bee's wax over their facial skin to smooth out their complexions. When they were speaking to each other, if a woman began to stare at another woman's face she was told, mind your own bee's wax. Should the woman smile, the wax would crack, hence the term crack a smile. In addition, when they sat too close to the fire, the wax would melt. Therefore, the expression losing face.

Brilliant Paper Sculptures of Nature's Most Beautiful Birds and Butterflies

At first glance, these colorful creatures look like real, living birds and butterflies, but a closer look reveals that they're actually crafted from paper. Colombia-born, Bristol-based artist Diana Beltrán Herrera has been sculpting wildlife from paper since 2012, and today she's a master of her craft. She creates lifelike birds, butterflies, flowers, and more, complete with extraordinary detail and tangible texture.

Directed by Andrew Ahn, Driveways stars three great actors from three generations — Lucas Jaye, who plays 8-year-old Cody; Hong Chau, who plays his mom, Kathy; and Brian Dennehy, who plays an older neighbor, Del.

The quest to solve the mysterious ‘eerie’ hum of the Golden Gate Bridge

Somewhere in a wind tunnel on the south-western side of Ontario, a group of the world’s leading bridge aerodynamics and acoustics experts are puzzling over a full-scale model of the railing of the Golden Gate Bridge.

The experts have been contracted to solve the mysterious problem of a strange humming sound that has been emanating from San Francisco’s famous bridge for the past year, driving some nearby residents to a state of madness.

The sound, heard only on windy days, has been compared to a “ghostly harmonica”, “chanting monks” and a “wheezing kazoo”

Throughout his storied yet tragic life, Nikola Tesla invented hundreds of devices and processes that changed our world, from the Tesla coil to the induction motor.

‘Americans are heaven for us’: the surge in US visitors throwing Greece a lifeline

A fresh wind blows down Adrianou. Seated in front of his rug store on the street that cuts through the heart of ancient Athens, Theo Iliadis takes in the scene. At 47, the owner of The Loom has seen “a lot of bad stuff” in recent years. The global pandemic couldn’t have come at a worse time for Greece, already gutted by prolonged economic crisis.

But barely a month after the tourist-dependent country opened its doors, the entrepreneur is in ebullient mood. There’s a glint in his eye and a lightness in the air of the carpet-stacked cavern behind him. “Americans are in town,” he smiles. “Business is good, The Loom is good and I’ve got drinks on ice.”
